ROTARY CLUB RECEIVE CHARTER

Calgary and Edmonton Members Assist in Big Gathering

The new Red Deer Rotary Club was instituted on Friday evening last, when a most enthusiastic meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church school room.

Rotarian Fred Osborne, of Calgary, represented District Governor Arthur Johnston of the Western Canadian Rotary District. Delegations of Rotarians from Edmonton and Calgary attended the initial meeting. The charter was presented to President Botterill by Rotarian R. J. Lydiatt, Director for Canada of Rotary International, who made an excellent and most informative address in making the presentation. Inspirational speeches were delivered by Rev. Comyn-Ching, of Edmonton, and Rotarian J. W. Davidson, of Calgary, member of the international committee on Rotary extension, and Past President F. E. Osborne of Calgary. Messages of congratulation were received and read from every Rotary Club in the 4th district, and brief personal greetings were extended on behalf of the Rotary Clubs of Edmonton and Calgary, by President W. J. Thompson of Edmonton, and Rotarian Charles O. Smith, representing President P. L. Naismith, of Calgary.

The following wire was sent to Raymond M. Havens, President of Rotary International, Kansas City, Mo.:

Dear President Ray,—

Red Deer Rotarians, at their institutional meeting this evening, at which Calgary and Edmonton Rotarians were present, enjoyed very much your exposition of Rotary, as broadcasted from Kansas City. It was heard quite distinctly and with the songs which followed was naturally the leading feature of our program. Of the songs, the Lindy Lou number came throughg particularly clear. Greetings from all. Bill Botterill, President, Red Deer Club.

The programme was very interesting, Madam LeSaunter assisting with three of her brilliant pupils in the persons of little Janice McDowell, Mary Smith and Zelma Moyes. A standing vote of thanks was tendered them by the meeting. Harry Hitchcroft also greatly contributed to the success of the meeting by his special songs.

One of the features of the evening was a radio concert, which included an address by Raymond Havens, president of Rotary International from Kansas City, and was much enjoyed.

The arrangements for this concert were kindly made by Alex. B. Mitchell of this city. The concert was distinctly heard with the great-

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HAVE PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENING AND DANCE

The Knights of Pythias hall was a scene of lively enjoyment and pleasure on Friday evening last, when this lodge entertained at a social and dance, proceedings being kept up in good style till a late hour. CALGARY HUSTLERS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

The majority of our hockey boys journeyed to Calgary on Saturday last to witness the final game for the intermediate championship of the province, between the Calgary Hustlers and Lacombe.

The ice at the arena was very soft, consequently the play was not as fast as it would otherwise have been. The win of 5-2 for the Hustlers is no criterion of the game, as Lacombe were pressing a good deal of the time and should have made the score close.

While Lacombe used only one substitute, and most of the players went the whole stretch, the Hustlers seemed in poor condition, having three subs. on hand, and changing players at every face-off.

Lacombe played the more consistent hockey, using combination at all times, but the soft ice made passing hard. Steers, in goal, was not playing his usual game, and at least two of the scores should never have passed him.

The Hustlers played a strong defence, and relied almost entirely on individual work on the forward line, McFarlane showing to the best advantage.

The Hustlers' win is not a popular one among the town outside of Calgary. It seems to be the concensus of opinion that a place the size of Calgary might well have a higher ambition than to collect together a team for the purpose of grabbing the intermediate honors from the smaller places. Even at that, man for man, in our opinion Carstairs, Lacombe and Red Deer have all better teams than the Hustlers trotted out Saturday night. With the exception of two or three men, who have previously played senior hockey (and to whom their win on Saturday night was due) their players are only the average.

Old Timer, you are welcome. Everyone welcome on Friday, March 2nd, in Penhold.

On Friday evening, March 9, under the auspices of the Methodist Ladies' Aid, one of Clara Rothwell Anderson's famous sketches, "Aunt Susan's Visit," will be presented by local talent. Look for further announcements.

PENHOLD NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Wood's on Thursday with fourteen present. It being the anniversary of Geo. Washington's birthday, they studied his life. Mrs. Ross gave a paper on "The Life of Washington." Mrs. Harte read a selected cutting referring to his principles, and Mrs. T. Lee sang "Beautiful America." Plans were then discussed as to ways and means for the Old-Timers' Reunion.

Miss Isabella Harte was operated on for appendicitis on Tuesday. She is in the Red Deer Hospital. Misses Lynes and Mrs. Geo. Inglis are substituting at her school, the former for this week and the latter from then on.

Miss Oldford was home for the week end.

Mrs. Oxley and children are expected back next Sunday.

Little Leona Martin is visiting her grandparents at Warner, Alta.

The warm spell is bringing more grain in, but it is also spelling the roads, and the teams have a hard pull over the bare ground of the village.

Mr. Fred Parker nearly had his house burnt down on Saturday. Alf. Pye was going past with the mail, and the shingles were burning, so he ran in and told them and then helped put the fire out.

Bruce Simpson is back at school, but little Norman Stewart does not seem to improve.

Carl Henderson left for the United States on Monday, where he will join his wife.

Miss D. Harte had a pleasant surprise on Friday evening when her friends gathered at her home to spend a few hours in her company.

Mrs. Strong and children left on Saturday to see her mother who is ill in Edmonton.

As it is impossible to issue personal invitations to all the Old Timers of the district, we employ the medium of the press to ask everybody to attend the Old Timers' Reunion on Friday, March 2nd, in Penhold. With a splendid programme, supper, and dance with Bone's orchestra and the Aberdeen pipes, a good time is assured to all.

Verne McDougall wishes the parties who removed his set of 3-section harrows from his place to return same at once, when no further action will be taken.

THE NEW C.N.R. STATION

Another stage in the history of the C.N.R. in Red Deer was completed this week, when the business offices were transferred from the temporary station to the new and up-to-date permanent building. The new station presents an imposing appearance, and adds not a little to the appearance of the eastern portion of the city. On the ground floor are to be found the ticket and business offices; a general waiting-room fitted up with all modern conveniences and brilliantly lit with three clusters of four lights each; a ladies' waiting-room similarly fitted and the baggage and check room. One feature of the downstairs plan is that all baggage may be checked from inside. Upstairs are the diving quarters for the agent, finished in up-to-date style, and containing ample accommodation. The basement contains storage rooms and also the heating plant, which is a combination hot air and water system. The platform, which is being extended, is 6 by six or 8 lamps and a number of clusters on the building.

Excellent facilities are also provided at the freight sheds for storage purposes and also for loading and unloading cars, and the platform here is being extended to permit three cars being loaded at one time.

POULTRY CAR IS OBJECT OF INTEREST

An object of interest to farmers and poultrymen was to be seen at the C.N.R. depot this week in the shape of a specially designed car for the shipment of poultry. This car, which was obtained through the courtesy of the local agent, Mr. McGibbon for the U.F.A., contains room for 3,360 head. The poultry are confined in coops 3 ft. x 3 ft. 6 ins. and 14 inches high, on each side of the car. Each coop is fitted with feed troughs. Overhead is a 200-gallon tank so that the birds may be watered on the journey. In the centre of the car ample space is left for the storage of feed, and this section is also fitted with a heater for the convenience of those travelling with the birds.

There are only two of these cars in Western Canada, both being on the C.N.R. route, and they are of the latest design for efficient and careful handling of poultry.

Beef—Shipments of good beef cattle are selling all right at Edmonton, but the thin stuff is draggy. Choice heavy and light steers have been making $5 to $5.50, but real toppy stuff would beat that; good steers, $4 to $4.50; medium, $3 to $3.50; common, $2.50 to $3. Choice cows a little higher at $3.25 to $3.75; good, $2.75 to $3.25; medium, $2.25 to $2.75; common, $1.25 to $2.25; canners, $1.25 to $1.75. Choice heifers, $3.75 to $4.25; good, $3 to $3.50. Bulls from $2 to $2.50; medium stuff, $1.25 to $2. Calves, $4 to $5, with fancy veal four bits over; common, $2.50 to $3.50. Stocker heifers not showing much demand at $1.50 to $2.50; stock cows slow at $1.50 to $2.

Hogs—

Sales this week opened at Calgary at $9.35 for thick smooth; select bacon 10 percent. premium. Basic price today on thick smooth $9 to $9.10.

Prices at Edmonton during the week have been a little better, with the basic price on thick smooths at $9 to $9.25; some long haul hogs make $9.35; premium 10 percent. on select bacon.

Sheep—

Not many sheep at Calgary this week, top lambs $11.25, others down to $9; yearlings from $9 down; ewes from $7 down to $4 for common.

Sheep have not been plentiful at Edmonton and a few lambs made $11, and others down to $9; yearlings, $7 to $8; ewes, $4 to $6.

Grain—

Wheat showing fluctuations and some export buying at low points, though European market seems indifferent. Coarse grains reported somewhat stronger in tone, but not much business passing. Bad weather held back receipts at Winnipeg.

Butter—Cream—Cheese—

Butterfat—Prices advanced 2c this morning; special grade, 40c; firsts, 37c; seconds, 34c; off grade, 29c. Creamery Butter—Cartons likely to advance; carlot prices, basis specials, 42c to 43c, Alberta points. Dairy Butter—Firm, with fancy table grade 30c to 32c; dealers buying on grade from 26c down; straight receipts 20c to 22c. Present high prices only likely to last until production increases.

Eggs—Poultry—

Eggs—Alberta standard eggs worth 35c; pullets eggs coming on locally and bought at 30c.; better weather will increase production and affect price. Poultry—Fowl and chicken unchanged at 16c. to 14c. live, quoted by dealers; markets paying 14c to 20c on dressed birds. Receipts of turkeys, ducks and geese light; turkeys, 17c to 18c; ducks and geese, 12c to 14c, live; dressed turkeys, 20c to 22c; ducks and geese, 16c to 20c, dressed at city markets.

Farm Killed Meats—

City markets quoting prices unchanged, with exception of lambs and mutton, advanced to 17c to 20c and 14c to 16c.

Potatoes—

Trade slow and Calgary trade reporting ample offers at $20 for best grades and down to $14, delivered.

Hay—

Business slow during past week, and prices shifting up and down. Farmers offering supplies at country points; Timothy, $23 to $25; upland, $10.50 to $15; alfalfa, $16 to $15; green feed, $11 to $12; oat straw, $6 to $7; wheat straw, $5 to $6.

Hides—

Prices unchanged for the present, but lower quotation—probably ½c off—would not be surprising by next issue. Poor quality hides and lack of tannery buying are very marked.

Furs—

Fur prices unchanged from last week's reduction and prospects steady until next sales. Winnipeg auction on end of this month and spring sale at Montreal latter part of March.

FARM WELL WATER OFTEN POLLUTED

35 Per Cent. of Samples Tested by Dominion Chemist Found Seriously Contaminated

Among the samples of agricultural interest sent to the Division of Chemistry of the Dominion Experimental Farms for analysis last year were 119 samples of water from farm wells, with a view to securing information as to whether they were pure and wholesome for drinking purposes. Of these 24 per cent. were found to be satisfactory, 18 per cent. were suspicious and probably dangerous, and 35 per cent. seriously polluted. It is found that in the majority of instances that polluted water comes from shallow wells which are improperly located, either in the barnyard or under the stable or barn, or not far from the outhouse. Sooner or later, states the Dominion Chemist in his annual report, a well thus located must become contaminated and its water a menace to health. The well should be located at least fifty yards from any probable source of contamination, while as an additional safeguard the surrounding area should be maintained in sod. It will be found of very considerable value to line the well to a depth of 10 to 12 feet and to a thickness of say 6 inches with concrete or puddled clay, continuing this wall or lining for a foot above ground.

Safeguards Against Disease

If contamination is suspected the following safeguards are recommended:

1. Boiling for ten or fifteen minutes all water required for drinking or culinary use. The water thus boiled can be aerated, and freed from insipidity, by cooling in the open air.

2. Chlorination. A level teaspoonful of chloride of lime rubbed up with a little water to the consistency of cream. This thin paste is diluted and thoroughly mixed with water to the volume of approximately one pint, bottled and securely corked. This stock solution will keep for at least a week. A teaspoonful of this solution should be added with stirring to each two gallons of the water to be treated. After fifteen minutes all disease germs will be destroyed.

Farmers desirous of an analysis should write to the Division of Chemistry for the necessary directions for the collection of the sample.

The wholesale price of sugar advanced another 25 cents Wednesday morning, making the price $10.10 a hundred pounds.

ON CHOOSING A HUSBAND

To the Lady Contributor of The News.

Dear Lady Contributor, are you inclined
To answer some questions as to the kind
Of husband you think I should try to entice
To apply for my hand? I should love your advice.

My age is uncertain; I work in a store
At fifty a month—it's a horrible bore;
I live in the city—one room—all alone—
My complexion is poor, but at least it's my own.

My features are regular; eyes grey-ish blue,
Teeth bought on instalment plan, really quite new;
Height five feet four inches; weight ninety-eight pound;

Disposition romantic; you've guessed that no doubt;
Inclined to the giggles when men are about;
Education deficient, but never mind that;
Taste in dress unimpeachable; look at my hat.

Should I look for a competent, business-like man
And ignore his appearance? Is that the best plan?
Should I wait till the prince of my day-dreams appears
On a prancing black steed—but I might wait for years.

What do you say to a clergyman? Safe, I should think,
But inclined to be dull and to drive one to drink;
And a doctor, no, thank you; no microbes for me;
I'd imagine them crawling about in the tea.

Then a school-master? Ah, I could worship the dear;
But I couldn't live up to his standards, I fear.
And a lawyer—no, never; they are always the same;
They can talk about nothing but statements of claim.

Do they matter—his business, his income, his name,
Provided he's willing and I am the same?
If his glances are ardent and dulcet his tone,
And I meet him at midnight, by moonlight, alone?

Dear Lady Contributor, write once again,
And admit that you're wasted advice as to men.
Old age may enable you balance and weigh;
Youth considers the evil enough for the day.

"LONELY."

FRANCE UNFORGETFUL AND UNAFRAID

(Providence Journal)

The attitude of France at the Premiers' conference in Paris is consistent with her attitude from the first. It is the result of her long experience with German cruelty and duplicity, her intimate knowledge of the continuing German menace and her desperate resolve that her sufferings and losses in the World War shall not be repeated.

We in America must set our faces against the old propaganda that has been revived here in Germany's behalf. We must arm ourselves against the insidious and poisonous arguments of those who proclaim the "danger" from "militaristic" France. The purpose of the propagandists is plain—to create sympathy for Germany and against the courageous European power that confronts her with the clearest vision of her unchanged spirit and aspiration.

The old aggressive spirit lives in Germany, the old crowd is in commercial and financial control there, the nation has undergone no moral transformation, there are no signs of repentance for the harvest of sorrow sown in the fearful years from 1914 to 1918. The money plight of Berlin is artificial, deliberately created for Germany's own sinister purposes. The capitalist class is unimpaired and determined to prove to the military leaders that the future of the country lies in its hands. The tobogganing of the German mark is a manufactured phenomenon, a carefully contrived device for camouflaging the abounding prosperity of the captains of industry. It bears no relation to the real state of German business. It is only an item in the old German game of intrigue and deception.

Behind the whining professions of abject German poverty a smooth oiled industrial machine has been speeded up. The ambitions of those in control of it are as dangerous to the rest of the world as the ambitions of the military clique were eight and a half years ago. We on this side of the world are blind to that fact. We could visualize the spectacle of ruthless and terror-spreading armies, but we cannot or will not see that the old imperialistic spirit of Germany survives. France is not fooled by any of the suave talk at Berlin. France knows that her treacherous neighbor is not to be believed. She has seen her towns and cities go up in smoke, her fields and forests devastated, her mines flooded, her manufactories despoiled and destroyed, her sons slaughtered by the million.

Today she insists on the protection of her eastern frontier against another invasion. The great blunder on the part of America was made when we refused to join with her and Great Britain in an agreement that would have forever prevented a repetition of the German crime of 1914. We should have been eager to erect—not for her sake alone, but for our own sake and that of human civilization—a barrier that would have discouraged Germany once and for all against a renewal of that conscienceless assault. But, instead, we talk in hesitating tones of the terms on which we are willing to help France, using the language of the pettifogger and bargainer, forgetful of the sacrifices of our sister republic for us and for humanity, forgetful of Germany's unexpiated ruthlessness, forgetful of the hypocrisy and intrigue that still characterize the conduct of the ruling German class.

Today we have come to believe again that a safety zone three thousand miles wide separates us from the danger spots of the world, to delude ourselves with the thought that nothing in Europe vitally concerns us, that having throttled the German menace in 1918 we can breathe easily and sleep soundly for the rest of time.

But France knows better than that. She is perpetually on guard. She realizes that the one argument Germany understands is the argument of force, and it is this argument she proposes to employ. If no one will help her, she will use it alone. She does not accept Germany's promises because she knows they are absolutely unreliable, of less worth than the paper they are written on.

In these days of hesitation and bewilderment, the voice of France is clear and refreshing. It is a summons to action, a warning against sloth and self-deception, a bugle-call to the old conflict against the systematized and malignant greed that once before almost overcame the world.

DAIRYING A WORLD INDUSTRY

The international character of the dairy industry is responsible for the organization of the World's Dairy Congress Association. Under the auspices of this body and of the government of the United States a World's Dairy Congress has been arranged, to be held in Washington from October 2 to 5 this year. The vast extent of the dairy industry and its international status are recognized by those responsible for the congress. Scientists, health officials, government officials, social welfare workers, and producers, manufacturers, and distributors of milk and milk products will contribute to the discussions. These will relate to improving the quality and reducing the production and handling costs of dairy products and improving national health through their more general use. The international aspect of the commercial side of dairying has not been overlooked. It is recognized that the movement of surplus dairy products from Australia, New Zealand, the Argentine Republic and South Africa northward profoundly affects prices in Canada, the United States and Western Europe. The Congress is called together by President Harding, who has been authorized by Act of Congress to invite foreign representatives to attend.

Divide Your Dollars with Your Neighbor

Buy at Home

Everybody has a certain amount of civic pride—that sort of pride which helps make a village a town, and a town a metropolitan city.

The growth of any community is dependent upon the support given its citizens. If we fail in our co-operation the town either stands still or retrogrades. If we uphold the town by sustaining it wholeheartedly we help ourselves and the community. The theme of this advertisement is: "Help our town; buy at home." This applies to the purchase of all commodities, particularly printing.

Let us divide our dollars among our neighbors and fellow-citizens who have the interests of the community at heart.

The town needs our support and we need the support of the town. Let's get together and share our fortunes. Money sent out of town is forever lost.

CONDOR U.F.A.

A meeting of the Condor U.F.A. Local was held in the Condor Community hall on Saturday, February 17, with Mr. A. L. Macdonald in the chair.

Final arrangements were made for the U.F.A. concert and dance to be held at Condor on March 9. H. Meeres moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Houghton for her kindness in offering to provide the music for the dance.

Some discussion took place over the supplementary tax, the following resolution being made by H. Meeres and seconded by Hector Macdonald:—"Whereas the local is of the opinion that there is now no further need of the municipal supplementary tax, which was raised to help the Patriotic Fund and other war purposes, and whereas the farmer can ill afford to pay other municipal and school taxes, therefore be it resolved that all members of the House use their utmost endeavors to have the supplementary tax removed." On the suggestion of S. Hastie, the secretary was instructed to forward a copy of the resolution to G. W. Smith, M.P.P., asking him to place it before the House.

A lively argument took place between S. Hastie and H. Meeres over the sale of $3,000,000 of bonds sold in the U.S.A., Mr. Hastie contending that it was poor finance.

As it is very near the election of Councillors, the chairman had invited Mr. Atkinson, from Evergreen, to come and address the meeting. In his very able address, Mr. Atkinson advocated the opening of the road between the south and Condor, pointing out the great benefit to the farmers of obtaining a much shorter route for marketing, etc. Mr. Atkinson seemed to be most anxious to do all in his power for the amelioration of the farmers in his district.

Mr. Meeres suggested that by diverting the road somewhat this road would be absolutely practicable of construction.

At the conclusion of his address, it was moved by S. Hastie and seconded by H. Macdonald that the meeting adjourn till March 10 at 8 o'clock.

Dorothy Scott Hastie,
Secretary-Treasurer.

CONDOR

On March 2 the Condor Ladies' Basketball Club is holding a masquerade to try and raise funds for their Club. Everyone should support these ladies in their praiseworthy endeavor to establish their Club on a firm footing and to get a good start for the new season.

On Friday, March 9, the Condor U. F. A. is giving a concert and dance. The following programme has been arranged: Pianoforte solo, Mrs. Ed. Meeres; sketch, "Joshing the Janitor," S. Hastie, J. Stenhouse; dialogue, "Flea Powder." Alma Macdonald, D. Frost, D. Blair; sketch, "Easier to Preach than to Practise," school children; songs by Miss Eastman, R. Hewitt and N. Eastman. The music for the dance will be supplied by the Harmony orchestra.

The young man who had been calling so frequently on Helen came at last to see Helen's father.

"It's a mere formality, I know, sir," he said, "this asking for your daughter's hand, but we thought it would be pleasing to you if it were observed in the usual way."

Helen's father stiffened.

"And may I inquire," he asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Helen's marriage was a mere formality?"

"Yes, sir," replied the young man. "It was Helen's mother."

Cream Grading Endorsed

Both Saskatchewan and Manitoba have now endorsed Alberta's system of cream grading, so far as the dairymen's conventions of these two provinces are concerned. It is likely that legislation will be introduced by these two provinces along the lines of that in Alberta. Both these provinces abolished the cream buying stations some two years ago.

University Report

During the present there are 1233 students registered at the Alberta University, according to the annual report of that institution. Of these 336 are first year students, 265 second year students, 208 in the third year and 104 in the fourth year, with 68 graduates. The remainder includes 123 corresponding students, 74 summer session students, 59 special students, 10 public health nurses and 9 B. D. students.

There are 666 students in arts and sciences, 81 in applied science, 222 in medicine, 142 in law, 102 in agriculture, and 44 in pharmacy.

Increase in Subsidy

According to figures published from Ottawa, Alberta receives a slightly increased subsidy from the federal government during the coming year. The amount to be received is $1,628,638, an increase of $7,563.

Investigate Calgary Hospital

Arthur K. Whiston, supervisor of organization of hospitals for the provincial government, is to make a thorough investigation into the hospitals department of Calgary city, following an arrangement made between the minister of health, Hon. R. G. Reid, and Mayor George Webster of Calgary.

Mr. Whiston's services have been made available to Calgary, just as they were made available to the city of Red Deer last year, by consent of the minister of health, and on application of the city authorities. Mr. Whiston is a non-medical hospital expert who has had charge of the organization of the municipal hospitals since the inception of the system.

For some time affairs of the hospital department of the city of Calgary have been the subject of serious consideration by the authorities of Calgary. The cost of the four hospitals operated by the city of Calgary during the past year was over $200,000 in excess of the receipts.

Successful Corn Growing

E. B. Doten, of Gleichen district, east of Calgary, is one of Alberta's successful corn growers. Last year, he reports having grown 90 acres of corn, harvesting more than 1,000 bushels of perfectly matured seed. This gave him feed for his hogs and other stock, leaving him a surplus for sale as seed.

Irrigation Council Report

Water will be available in the spring on two of the irrigation projects in southern Alberta, namely the Lethbridge Northern and the United, according to the annual report of the irrigation council of the province. Considerable work is now being done towards colonizing the surplus lands in these districts. A total of 40,000 acres of land has been listed at prices ranging from $15 to $50 an acre. The council has a mailing list of 8,000 in its colonization work, and have already received more than 400 enquiries for land. Twenty prospective settlers have been shown over the projects.

Telephone Department Report

By the fact that interest charges during the past year had increased over $350,000, largely due to capital expenditures made during 1920 and 1921, and by the fact that there is a loss of revenue of $240,000 per year from phone removals, the surplus of the provincial government telephone system is given as only $423.55 for 1922, according to the annual report. There has been, however, a reduction during the year of $67,587 in operating and maintenance charges, due to a policy of economy, and an increase in earnings of $112,274 over 1921, in spite of the losses through phone removals. The increase in the interest charges, however, reduced the surplus to the amount stated above.

Gross revenue of the system in 1922 was $2,359,551.22, from operation, to which is added miscellaneous revenue of $368,892.32. The gross expenditure was $1,380,563.54, leaving a balance of $1,347,850.00, out of which comes the item of $1,347,426.45, for interest, contingencies, etc., leaving the surplus referred to of $423.55.

In the Legislature

One of the most important acts of the session was introduced during the past week by Hon. Mrs. Parlby, member of the government without portfolio. This act makes provision for certain procedure through the courts whereby the father of illegitimate children may be made responsible for the maintenance of the mothers of such children for a certain period, and for the maintenance of the child until the age of 16 The bill is called An Act for the Protection of the Children of Unmarried Parents, and makes provision for the administration of the act under the superintendence of selected children, who may be appointed guardians of illegitimate children under certain conditions. The act also provides for the summonsing of fathers of such children and for the issuing of affiliation orders against such fathers, for the care and maintenance of mother and child under certain conditions. The act received its second reading on Thursday following a short address by Mrs. Parlby.

On Monday the house adopted unanimously the motion of W. D. Smith, Redcliff, calling for an enquiry into the grain trade.

On a division of the house, the bill to incorporate the Institute of chartered secretaries was given a six months' hoist, the motion being introduced by W. M. Davidson as an amendment to second reading of the bill. The vote stood 43 to 3 in favor of the six months' hoist.

On Tuesday, on a division of 35 to 18, the house passed an amendment introduced by Geo. Stringham and W. H. Shields to the motion of Hon. C. R. Mitchell respecting sheep grazing in closed areas.

On Thursday the house passed a motion introduced by W. M. Davidson asking for advance polls in elections in the cities of the province and the extending of time for closing of polls in cities to 8 in the evening.

Among the measures standing for third reading are the following: Act to amend the Traveling Shows Act, Act to amend the Irrigation Districts Act; one to assist the Little Bow Irrigation District; one to amend the Drainage Districts Act; one to assist the Bow Lake Drainage District; one to amend the Railway Act; an Act respecting Stock Yards; an Act to amend the Clerks of the Court Act; one to amend the Telephone and Telegraph Act; and the Act to amend the Domestic Animals Act.

Calgary and Edmonton charter amendments were considered in municipal law committee during the week.

SCHOOL FAIR

This is to notify those schools which take part in our local Rural School Fair that a meeting will be held in the City Hall, on Saturday, March 10th, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of arranging a programme of work for this year, and appointing officers.

Last year's Fair was a very marked success in many ways. The extensions in the livestock and poultry departments were very noticeable. This should be made a banner year. Teachers especially are requested to be present at this meeting, and as many representatives from each district as can manage to attend. Be a live wire in your community, connect up with your neighbors, boost for the Fair, and get your reward from the glad faces of the children as they reflect your spirit.

The Olds School of Agriculture is co-operating; and is anxious we should get away to an early start.

A guide pamphlet, together with a seed order sheet, has been mailed to each school; these blank seed forms should be filled out as soon as possible and returned to the Secretary, M. J. Gibson, so there may be no delay in getting the seeds for hot beds and indoor planting.

Read over your pamphlet, bring it along, and be prepared to offer any helpful suggestions.

CAROLINE NEWS

Following the example set by Ty Cobb and G. W. West, H. A. Langley pioneer merchant of Caroline, has reopened a general store at this place and his immortal whiskers will once more adorn the space behind the counter.

Mrs. H. E. Lindskog is visiting with her mother, Mrs. R. F. Dial.

Messrs. John Truneck and C. A. Anderson were the guests of Jeremiah Vandermeera on Sunday last.

Mr. and Msr. Lightbown, of Evarts, are visiting with their son, J. H. Lightbown.

The community is loath to part with James Lightbown, who recently relinquished the Caroline store, but who still, at the present writing, retains the P.O. As Postmaster Mr. Lightbown performs his duties with efficiency and admirable courtesy, which is a combination we do not always get.

Owing to the severe weather, the attendance at the U.F.A. entertainment on the 16th inst. was comparatively small to what it should have been. For what it lacked in numbers, however, it made up in efficiency, and the half impromptu, half prearranged programme which was rendered was well worth the while.

QUEBEC, Que.—The request made by Mayor Curley of Boston for the return of the small gun said to have been captured by the British on June 17, 1775, at the battle of Bunker Hill, and which now stands on the square of the Quebec Citadel, has been referred to the Minister of Militia at Ottawa.

PORT ARTHUR.—An official announcement by the C. P. R. at Winnipeg says :—"At Port Arthur additional trackage will be provided to accommodate grain consigned to the terminal elevators at Current River."

KOBE. — Sixty tons of Canadian commodities of various kinds have arrived at Shanghai to be placed in the newly-established Canadian sample salesrooms originated by Dr. J. W. Ross, Canadian Government trade commissioner at Shanghai. The show rooms will be in charge of D. B. Sparks, who has spent several years in China as a representative of Canadian manufacturers. Dr. Ross states that Canada is more interested than ever in the upbuilding of trade with the Orient, and the opening of the sales rooms at Shanghai is a tangible indication of the efforts being made to accomplish that purpose.

ST. JOHN, N.B. — At the present rate of shipment of grain, the 20,000,000 mark may be attained this season. For the present season to the end of January, the total export of cereal through the C. P. R. elevators was officially given at 8,904,335 bushels, compared with 4,576,233 bushels for the previous winter season. The increase for this winter to the end of January is 4,328,102. Grain shipments on February 1st of this year had equalled the total to March 10th last year.

LETHBRIDGE. — C. C. Stibbard, D.S.O., for some time C. P. R. trainmaster here, has been transferred to Penticton, B.C., where he will occupy the same position on the Kettle Valley Railway, a branch of the Canadian Pacific. Mr. Stibbard is succeeded here by C. E. Legg, of Penticton. Mr. Legg will assume his new duties at once. Coming to Lethbridge from overseas August 1, 1920, Mr. Stibbard has been a resident of the city continuously since that time.

KINGSTON. — Prominent officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway were in the city in connexion with local matters connected with the railway service. H. J. Main, superintendent of the Trenton division, and Col. Ripley, district engineer, inspected the new overhead bridge on the new line entering the city and which is now about completed. The rails are being laid and soon the trains of the Canadian National line, as well as those of the C. P. R., will be running over them and a great source of danger will be removed in the diamond switch that has been in operation for so many years at heavy expense.

CALGARY. — Those who knew Grant Hall, Vice-President Canadian Pacific Railway, in the olden days in the West, can recall his remarkable prowess with a gun. Although he now has little time for hunting expeditions he has by no means lost his well-known aim. While his train was proceeding at a rapid speed between Weyburn and Lethbridge his party noticed a coyote some fifty yards away. "Odds you couldn't hit it," remarked one of the guests. "Taken" said the Vice-President. Bang went his gun and the coyote rolled over. "The Call of the West," remarked the Vice-President with a smile.

MEDICINE HAT.—Within the past year, three locomotive engineers of the Medicine Hat division, James Fisher, Tom Penhale and Henry Hardy, have been retired from active service of the Canadian Pacific Railway on pensions. All three are veterans in service, have fired and driven construction trains in the pioneer days of road building, and for many years of late have been promoted to passenger runs. Tom Penhale is the oldest in service with the company, having enlisted in 1881. He has taken an active civic part in the community, and was an alderman of the city for several years. "Jim" Fisher has spent fifty-one years of his life railroading, covering during the entire period over two million miles in the cab of a locomotive. He started as fireman on the Intercolonial, and joined the Canadian Pacific in 1881—having pulled a passenger train for the past thirty-six years. Harry Hardy hired with the company in 1887 at Broadview, and later worked on a construction engine on the Prince Albert branch in 1890.

GLASGOW, Scotland. — The Glasgow Herald says: An agreement has been made between the Government of the Province of Ontario and the Overseas Settlement Committee for the acceptance by Ontario of a certain number of British settlers. The majority will consist of unmarried men, but there will also be a limited number of married men and of youths and girls over 16 years of age. Of the married men, about 200 have already been accepted by the Ontario authorities in London from applicants now dwelling in the Hebrides, where agents on behalf of the Province have been carrying on a special canvass for some time past. The agents are also endeavouring to select from the same islands a number of female farm workers, and there is a proposal that a special ship shall be chartered to sail from the North of Scotland to convey these settlers in a body.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. — The Moose Hall was recently the scene of what is probably the most important railway function in the history of Medicine Hat. The occasion was a banquet and presentation in honor of Henry Hardy, J. F. Fisher and Thos. Penhale, all engineers in the Canadian Pacific Railway service who have recently retired. There were more than 200 guests. A considerable number of the guests were from other railway centres throughout Canada.

CALGARY, Alta.—Beiseker, a town on the C. P. R. and G. T. P., about 35 miles northeast of Calgary as the crow flies, is in the grip of the incipient silver boom. On Saturday and Sunday men from the local district and from points afield, where the news spread with the usual rapidity of such tidings, staked out claims covering several sections about four miles east of the town. These were registered at the federal land office in Calgary.

No assay has yet been made of the ore, but those interested in the property are sending a sample to Edmonton. It may be necessary to bore another test hole, the finders say, before sufficient ore can be obtained to get a reliable assay. The original find was made by crews drilling for water and much of the first ore taken out has been given away as samples. The first find was made about three months ago.

CALGARY, Alta.—"We cannot expect to recover in a year or so from the effects of abnormal circumstances the whole country has been suffering from," remarked W. B. Lanigan, of Montreal, freight traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific, in the course of an interview with The Herald, in Calgary, "but I am safe in making this prophesy that this year will witness throughout Canada a revival of industry and agriculture, and that by 1924, the city of Calgary and the country tributary to it, as well as the rest of Canada are going to enjoy a return of their former prosperity."

It was in these words that the freight traffic manager of the great transportation company replied to the question as to how he viewed present conditions. "No matter what pessimists may say," he continued, "the resources of this country in minerals and in the fertility of its soil has not been appreciably touched and it has been inadequately advertised. The Province of Alberta, with its agricultural possibilities, its wealth of coal, and in my opinion, the waterpower of its streams and hills need only population to bring these possibilities into wealth. How any person can survey all these natural conditions and still remain a pessimist, is something I cannot understand."

BROCKVILLE, Ontario. — Several retirements on pension are announced on the Canadian Pacific Railway in this vicinity.

James Jelly, road master for the railway at Carleton Place for many years and a native of Leeds county, is retired on pension upon reaching the age limit. He entered the railway service as a youth and has seen the railway grow from small beginnings into the present great system.

James Milliken, section foreman for the C.P.R. at Carleton Place, is also superannuated. For some years he was on duty on the Montreal-Toronto mainline and a number of years ago was transferred to Carleton Place.

After 28 years as station agent at Merrickville, and nearly 40 years in the company's service, James A. Angus has also retired on pension. He is being succeeded by R. S. Corbett, Terrebonne, Que.

E. M. Jelly, who has been assistant division engineer of the C. P. R. at Smith's Falls, has been appointed division engineer, same road, at Schreiber.

The steel structure for the new C.P.R. overhead bridge over the G. T. R. tracks at Kingston Junction has arrived and the Dominion Bridge Company, Montreal, the contractors, has started to erect the bridge which, when completed, will open the new line into the city for the C.P.R. and C.N.R. trains.

Nomination and ratepayers' meeting for Municipal District of Lorne No. 402, was held in the Sunset Hill schoolhouse last Saturday. This being a fine day, quite a crowd gathered mostly all from the middle and east part. Noteworthy of mention is the fact that not one ratepayer from Division No. 3 attended.

Not much interest was displayed in the general affairs of the Municipality. People mostly gathered in groups discussing matters rather private or just affecting a particular division. The standing of the nominations, and the other members not up for election, is as follows:—

Div. 1—W. J. Begert, re-elected by acclamation.

Div. 2—Gust Maki, not up for election.

Div. 3—Owing to a general mix-up and utter neglect, not one ratepayer was present, and no nomination was received.

Div. 4—Jas. Jaffray, not up for election.

Div. 5—Gust Palm, not up for election.

Div. 6—The old Councillor, Philo Sloughter, nominated, also James Whitworth and C. Brownlow.

The situation created by the failure of the ratepayers in Division No. 3 to nominate a candidate for Councillor is not, as far as the writer knows, covered by any provision in the Municipal District Act, and the secretary, Mr. J. G. Evernden, is writing to the Department for advice. However, one of two things are going to happen. The Department of Municipal Affairs may appoint a man to represent this Division on the council board, or another nomination especially for this Division will be held. It is most likely that the last alternative is the one which will be adopted.

THE GOVERNMENT AND PROVINCIAL RAILWAY EXPENDITURE

The report presented by the Hon. Vernon Smith, Minister of Railways in the Alberta government, amounts to a severe censure of the late Liberal government of the province for the agreements made by it with respect to the railways in the north of the province, particularly that with the C.P.R. for the management of the Edmonton, Dunvegan & B. C. Railway. These agreements, it is suggested by the Minister, were extravagant and unbusinesslike from the public standpoint, and involved the wasting of large sums of public money. The history of railway development in the province has been a rather stormy and unsatisfactory one from the days of the A. & G. W. Railway agreement downwards. Inferior construction at exorbitant cost has resulted in a financial burden on the people out of proportion to the results obtained and beyond the resources of the, as yet, scanty population. No doubt it was, and is, highly desirable to get railways built in order to open up new country for settlement, even if immediate traffic returns are poor. In railway matters, it is often the case they must be provided in order to create traffic rather than that traffic should call for the provision of facilities, and a far-seeing constructive policy was no doubt justified in the pre-war days of comparative prosperity. That, however, did not justify hasty and ill-considered agreements in which it is to be feared that the expert railway man or contractor was liable to get the better of the raw politician. In any event, the present is a time for the utmost reduction possible in public expenditure. Expansion is impossible when the margin of present maintenance has become perilously narrow. The present government seems to have wisely recognised this fact, and it is to be praised rather than blamed for a policy of cautious restriction and a strict survey of public commitments.

THE DEMAND FOR A NATIONAL BANK

We have lately seen a pamphlet issued by the Canadian Banking Association dealing with the demand for a national or a provincial bank, which is apparently being made mainly in agricultural circles in the West, a demand which has not received any encouragement from the provincial government.

The pamphlet in question is moderately worded and its arguments seem sound, though naturally in reading it one must bear in mind that it is in the nature of a special plea on behalf of the existing system of banks. It points out, and gives figures in support of its contention, that the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, which has been used by the supporters of the national bank scheme as an argument in its favor, is not really what it is evidently thought by such supporters to be. Its business is almost wholly done with governments and it does not do much business with private individuals.. It is not a means of providing ample supplies of cheap money to all and sundry.

The feeling behind this demand is that the existing banks are not lending freely enough to individuals and are making large profits which the State might secure if it created a national bank. As to the making of profits by the State, this is an argument which might be applied to any successful industry. It is not necessarily an unsound argument, but those who advance it would do well to study the history of state trading enterprises generally. It is to be feared that the failures considerably outnumber the successes, especially in democratic countries. The incentive to large commercial enterprises would be considerably lessened if the principle became at all generally established that as soon as any such enterprise was well established and prosperous, a demand should be made for its being taken over by the state in the interests of sections of the public who were less successful in their sphere of work. That, however, is simply one phase of the perennial problem of state as against private enterprise, and outside the range of this question.

It is to be feared that much of this agitation proceeds from false assumptions. Times are bad. Capital is scare. We are all much poorer than before the war. There is a tendency for everyone to suspect that some other trade, or calling, or enterprise than his own is responsible for this impoverishment by piling up undue profits. The cry of "profiteer" is popular at present. To the ignorant and unthinking the banks are an obvious object for attack. They have heaps of money. Why should they not lend it freely in these days of scarcity? Let those who so argue remember that it is the main business of banks to lend money, and that they are only too glad to do so, but it is also their business to lend safely. Reckless lending leads to heavy losses and resulting insecurity. The last thing that is wanted in Canada is bank failures with their resultant destruction of the feeling of security in business. The United States in this respect is an excellent object lesson of how not to do things. The bank failures there in 1921 numbered 358.

There is a curious belief held by quite a number of persons nowadays that they are entitled to borrow all they want from some source or other, and that they ought not to be held strictly to account in the matter of repayment. There are far too many persons who will cheerfully give a note in temporary satisfaction of their obligations, and when the time comes for the note to be paid, regard any demand for such payment as in the nature of a personal insult dictated by malice and avarice on the part of the creditor. Of course, the result is that such persons sooner or later discover that they cannot get credit, that nobody will lend to them or trust them in any way.

The further argument apparently advanced that more money should be created and put into circulation is another fallacy based on forgetfulness of the elementary fact that money is merely a medium of exchange with no intrinsic value of its own. A short study of European finance at the present time ought to cure any disinterested enquirer of this delusion. In fact, this is a time when we are blessed with a wonderful array of awful warnings outside our own country. There is hardly any unsound, ridiculous, or disastrous experiment in politics or finance which has not been tried outside of Canada in the last few years. Let us realize that it is not any new and ingenious charlatan's device that will restore our prosperity but hard work and strict economy, public and private.

THE TONE OF OUR SCHOOLS

Our readers will have noticed in the report of the meeting of the Red Deer School Board, published in our last issue, that a resolution was passed by the Board deploring the fact of school children being allowed to attend dances till the small hours of the morning and asking for the assistance of parents to put a stop to this state of things.

Red Deer is proud of its schools, and we believe justly proud. It has been the aim of those interested in our schools to raise the standard of education given in them to a level which will make them notable in the Province. We believe that this aim has been attended with a measure of success, and that all honour for this result is due to those citizens who have given not a little of their time and thought to the work of the School Board, and to the staff of teachers in all grades who have loyally carried out the work entrusted to them by the Board.

It is the duty of every parent and of every citizen to see that the work done by the teachers under the supervision of the Board receives all possible support, and is not allowed to suffer from causes external to the schools and outside the province of Board of trustees. In our system of co-educational schools in our democratic country it has been a question of difficulty and anxiety to uphold the moral tone of our schools as distinct from the mere imparting of knowledge. Generally speaking, the supervision of the teachers does not extend beyond the class-rooms. It is little felt in the scrool playground. It practically ceases altogether beyond those limits. It therefore follows that the supervision and control of school children out of school hours devolves wholly on their parents and guardians.

In the opinion of the Board it is in the highest degree unhealthy for boys and girls still at school to be attending public dances through half the night. It is obvious that a child who goes to bed at three o'clock in the morning after an evening of fairly strenuous physical exercise and a certain amount of emotional excitement, cannot be in a fit state for school work at 9.30 the next morning. Brain and body are tired. Attention is decisively turned in other directions than the quiet routine of school work. Moreover, the children whom this notice of the Board has in view are at a difficult age when the light of knowledge of life is dawning but has not so far brightened as to enable them to see their way with anything like certainty through the inevitable difficulties that lie along the path of youth. For such children the atmosphere of a dance hall has risks and dangers that older people are less exposed to. Through such children that atmosphere may possibly spread into the schools among children even less mature and less able to steer a safe course for themselves with disastrous results, which cannot be ignored merely because they are unpleasant and difficult to deal with, unless we are to adopt with approval the policy of the ostrich, which buries its head in the sand on the approach of danger. It is absolutely impossible for teachers to dictate the tone of a school. That tone will vary constantly with the individual pupils, and often only the faintest echoes of it reach the teachers' ears. Sometimes it is quite beyond their knowledge.

It is not posible wholly to protect our children from the danger of evil. That danger is inherent in the life that has been given to them without their asking. Yet in so far as we are able, we may smooth their road. In so far as it is possible, we may see to it that obstacles are not put in their path. We very earnestly command this matter to the attention of all our citizens, parents and others. In so far as concerns the particular point referred to by the board, the organizers of our local dances can easily make a ruling that school children shall not attend public dances. In so far as concerns the wider question of the whole general tone of our children's life, we can every one of us take thought of any word or action of ours that may reach or affect them in order that so far as in us lies no one of these little ones may through us be led to stumble.

California plumbers threaten to go on strike for $10 a day. For the last two years they have been receiving $9 a day.

More than 660,000,000 Bibles in all languages have been printed in the world since printing was invented in the middle of the fifteenth century, according to George O. Buxton, Chicago publisher. Approximately 8,000,000 Bibles are printed in the United States and Canada annually, and 35,000,000 throughout the world. In a population of 115,000,000 in the United States, it is estimated that about 80,000,000 own Bibles.

Members of the Alberta Legislature receive $2,000 for a session lasting from four to six weeks. The Calgary Herald, discussing wastefulness in provincial administration, says:—"In this province, with a population less than that of the City of Toronto, we have eight ministers and 61 members. The eight ministers receive $50,500 in salaries, and in addition, $16,000 as sessional indemnity. The 61 members receive $122,000 as sessional indemnity. Here is a total of $188,500 for a year of one session."

More American Governors are declaring war on the bootlegger and lawbreaker. Pat M. Neff, Governor of Texas, in his message to the Legislature made a pronouncement that is worth repeating when he said:

"The bootlegger must go. He is an enemy of civilization. Our prohibition laws should be strengthened. Officers who will not enforce this law should be removed from office. Failure to enforce this law weakens all our laws. Public sentiment must swing away from the bootlegger to the side of law and order."

Britain's agriculture last year again declined from the extensive use of plowed land during the war. The reduction in the arable area has been continuous since 1918, and the land under the plow is not much greater than immediately before the war. The area of 26,026,000 acres under crops and grass in 1922 compares with 26,144,000 in 1921, but the arable area was 308,000 acres less, and permanent grass 139,000 more. A further decline of 300,000 acres would practically restore the country to its pre-war position, and should the present depression cause a further decline, the acreage would be lower than in any previous year.

In every part of Ontario during the last Dominion election, "Down with patronage" was one of the slogans of Liberal candidates. That, too, in face of the fact that the Union Government had abolished patronage greatly to the disadvantage of its friends. During the past year, under a provision of the act, 10,000 appointees were removed from Civil Service control. Now Major Power gives notice of a bill to repeal the Civil Service Act and give the party in power control over all appointments to office, little or big. It was Major Power who started the revolt against the militia estimates last session, and forced the Hon. Geo. P. Graham to accept to accept the will of the young Frenchman. That he will be equally successful in this movement is generally accepted.

ISLANDERS OF THE HEBRIDES SETTLE HERE

Hardy Men From the Scottish Isles Will Form Farm Colony at Red Deer

The following appeared in the Edmonton Bulletin of Friday last. We have been unable to secure any further information on the matter, but there is a rumor that the colony will settle in the Condor district:

One hundred hardy northern Scots from the Hebrides islands are coming to Alberta, and they will be followed at a later date by 400 more. The new settlers are the same type of men from whom the Hudson's Bay company drew their faithful servants in the old days; the factors who blazed the trail for the pioneer and who kept Canada for the British flag. The hundred mentioned are now learning Canadian farming methods in the east, and will this spring be brought out to Red Deer, where Father Andrew McDonnell is establishing a colony on lines which should be a criterion for similar efforts by other bodies.

Red Deer District

A central headquarters is being established in the Red Deer district, and here the wives and families of the islanders will remain until the men folk have their buildings erected on the homesteads, some land in crops and other preparations made to receive them.

A committee of the Hebrides men was brought out there from the east and they very soon saw what Alberta can produce, and after experience with the rock swept islands were duly impressed with the good black loam. The vastness of each farm was also brought home to them as contrasted with the limited areas in the islands, the largest land owner amongst the immigrants having cultivated a "farm" which consisted of seven acres.

MARCH ROD AND GUN

The March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, the well known Canadian sportsmen's magazine of the out of doors, contains many attractive features and abounds in stories and articles that are sure to please. "In the Canadian Alps," by Campbell J. Lewis, is a breezy, interesting article, while Bonnycastle Dale's article, "Spudging the Lumpsucker," is worthy of special mention. Harry M. Moore, whose work is popular with Rod and Gun readers, is among the writers who contribute red-blooded stories. H. Mortimer Batten is another. C. S. Landis and Robert Page Lincoln are at their best in their departments, Guns and Ammunition and Fishing Notes, respectively, while the other departments and features contain splendid features of outstanding quality. The magazine is illustrated profusely throughout, and in every way the March issue is one that no one will want to miss.

Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

THE CITY AND THE WESTERN GENERAL

In 1915 the Western General stated to a committee of the City Council that their capital expenditure since the organization of the Company amounted to $148,000, and in the annual reports submitted to their shareholders by their auditor, A. W. G. Allen, the average profit on operation was $17,000. In 1913 the statement shows a nett profit of $13,271, and in 1914 $15,070.

The John Galt Engineering Co. in 1911, at the instance of the Council, estimated the original cost of the plant at $91,000, and its then value, allowing for depreciation, $67,300, and they add, the average allowed for depreciation approximates 25 percent., which is reasonable, considering the age and condition of the various parts of the plant. We have allowed considerable depreciation on the boilers, and 75 percent. on the building, as it is in poor condition and will soon have to be replaced.

The rates then charged were 20 cents per kilowatt hour for light and power, with discounts and monthly minimum rate, about 300 service meters being in use.

The charge for house telephones had been increased from $10 to $20 per year, and business phones $35 per year.

Two years ago the government bought the telephone system from the Company for $85,000, leaving the remainder of the plant, worth $63,000, and using the same percentage for depreciation as in 1911, it brings it to $47,400.

No new machinery has been installed since 1906, when the last engine and boiler was put in, except a boiler feed pump of the Weir type, and it is doubtful if 2 percent. on the original cost of the machinery has been spent on repairs.

The John Galt Engineering Co. in 1911 estimated the annual revenue of the Company at $19,800, viz.: Light and water rent, $6,000; street lights, $2,000; sale of power, $3500; telephone, $5,500; pumping water, $2,800.

An estimate for 1922: Street lighting, $4,650; water rates, $3,981; hydrants, $1,760; lights and meters, $14,400; power rate, $12,000—a total of $36,795.

The amounts for street lighting, water rates and hydrants are fixed charges and are taken from the estimates laid before the Council in February, 1922.

More light and power is being used today; there are more large consumers of both. The old Ladies' College generated their own electricity to light their premises, but when the Government purchased the property for a Military Hospital, they took their light and power from the Western General, and Dr. Dick in applying to the Council for a reduction of water rates, based his argument on the fact that it was now costing them $3.00 per day extra for electric power to pump the water to the Hospital.

There are 37 hydrants connected to water mains in various parts of the city for use in case of fire, for which the City pays the Company $50 per hydrant per year. Allowance has to be made between conditions in 1911 and those obtaining in 1922; the cost of operation has increased, especially cost of fuel, still this applies to all plants, and after making allowance for these increases, there ought to be a much larger profit in 1922, for business has increased in greater ratio than expenses.

If, therefore, a profit of $15,000 was made on a capital of $148,000, from a revenue of $19,800 in 1911, if the Govt. valuation of the Telephone system, $55,000, alone is taken from the original value of $148,000 (not the extra $30,000 that was paid) and depreciation, the balance of capital is $62,250, what should the profit be on the estimated revenue of $36,000, or even $30,000?

If the Company is making a profit on its business, where was the need for them to be so insistent for the City to pay them their quarterly account for street lighting and water service last October, and not deduct the taxes from the amount? and if the Company is not making a profit, of what value would the franchise be in the open market? No sane man is going to buy a business unless it is a paying proposition. If no profit is made, then the management is not what it was in 1913 and 1914.

That the estimated revenue for 1922 is not at all unreasonable, the following facts taken from the records of 1923, of a plant owned and operated by a municipality with a population almost identical with Red Deer, will show:

The actual cash received for the ten months of 1923, January 1st to October 31st, for electric light and power service was $21,598, with two of the heaviest months for revenue still to come in, which would bring it to about $28,000 for the year's earnings.

This amount has been earned on rates for light: the first 40 k.w., 12c. less 6%, and for all above 40 k.w. 10½c. less 6%.

For power: the first 150 k.w., 10c., and on a sliding scale to 60½ k.w. at 6c. per k.w. It is an established fact that the cheaper the rates, the more light and power will be used, and in discussing this point with several of the citizens of the place alluded to, they assured me they did not attempt to economise on the amount of light, as it made so little difference in the monthly bill.

It is also an axiom in mechanics that it is more economical for machinery to work up to its full capacity than otherwise.

I hope, with the editor's kind permission, to deal further with this subject, as it is to the interest of the citizens, to at least some extent, to consider whether the Western General is worth taking over and at what price.

ECKVILLE U.F.A.

Owing to stormy and cold weather last Friday, the members did not wish to brave the cold, and consequently did not go to the Christie's place as intended. Instead they met in the town for a formal meeting.

The secretary was authorized to order a minimum car of binder twine from the United Grain Growers. This firm was chosen among several others on account of the excellent service received last season. The twine this year will be 600 feet to the pound. Mr. Isaacson reported that the Evarts U.F.A. had decided to co-operate with us in this shipment, and the secretary was instructed to write other locals and individuals to join with us and thereby make it possible to take a maximum car.

Some other business was discussed, and it was decided, if convenient for the Christie Bros., to meet at their place on March 16. Hope was expressed for nice weather at that time.

CRERAR ACCUSED OF WHEAT GAMBLING

Currie Charges Him With Cornering Grain on New York Market

Toronto, February 23.—In the Ontario legislature last night J. A. Currie (Conservative, Southeast Toronto), attacked Hon. T. A. Crerar, former leader of the Progressive party, on the score of "wheat gambling."

During discussion on the second reading of Hon. Manning Doherty's amendment to the Agricultural Development Act, Mr. Currie said Mr. Crerar was a wheat gambler, who had "cornered wheat on the New York market to the extent of $350,000." His speculation in wheat had made it impossible for him to continue as leader of the Progressives. Premier Drury denied both charges.

Charges Denied

Mr. Crerar, said the premier, had never dealt in wheat to his own advantage. He had vacated the leadership of his party because the farmers wanted him to return to his duties as head of their organization. And, further, if Mr. Currie had charges to make he should make them where Mr. Crerar could answer them. Mr. Currie returned to the attack by criticizing the premier on the ground that he had made no effort to stop the stealing of averages at Fort William.

Did Not Complain

"When the farmers of the west were being robbed of five or six cents a bushel, did my honorable friend the premier go to Ottawa and complain? No."

The Dominion, he continued, had appointed a commission to investigate Mr. Crerar and "his associates on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange" had secured an injunction against the commission, and the court had ruled that the matter was one which concerned provincial rights. Still the Ontario government had taken no action. It was instances such as that, contended the speaker, which were bringing the farmers to the point where they realized that they were being "bunceed" by their own government.

Hon. Manning Doherty met the speaker with the charge that he was "stabbing in the dark" and "bluffing."

START INDEMNITY CUTS AT THE TOP

Edmonton, February 22.—If there is any cutting of private members' indemnities at the present session of the legislature, then the members propose to start on the top branches of the tree by lopping off ministers' salaries first. This was the chief decision taken at a lengthy caucus of the Farmer members Wednesday night. Not only do the private members propose to start with the ministers, but they propose going right on down the line to lay the axe to the pay of high-salaried department officials, and continue on down through the ranks of the civil service.

The indemnity reduction suggestions proposed ranged mostly from reducing the present indemnity of $2,000 to $1,800 or $1,500, and cutting from $1,000 to $2,000 off the present $6,000 salary of the ministers plus their $2,000 indemnity.

Among some of the members, the scheme of going after the ministers' salaries and those of high paid department heads is regarded as a good chance to get at the civil service, which hitherto has steadfastly and successfully resisted all efforts to reduce pay. In the government telephone department, which is outside the civil service, reductions aggregating 11 per cent. have been made, and telephone employees and officials are objecting to their being the only ones to suffer the axe.

WEST CLAMORS FOR CHEAPER MONEY, SAYS GEORGE LANE

Montreal, Feb. 23.—The Westerners' Club of Montreal has received a communication from George Lane, of Calgary, one of the largest ranchers of the west, in which he speaks of the grievances of the three western provinces, "which it seems to me have been brought about by financial difficulties, high freight rates, both by rail and water, and high-priced skilled and unskilled labor. This terrible tariff which has been placed against Canada by the United States has made a tremendous loss for the ranchers and mixed farmers too. As you are aware, the farmers have control of the Manitoba government and also of Saskatchewan and Alberta, and they are clamoring for "cheaper money and cheaper transportation by rail and water."

Montreal's Opportunity

After pointing out that a great many people have the idea that Vancouver should be the proper outlet for Saskatchewan and Alberta, Mr. Lane suggested the opportunity for "good business men of Montreal to endeavor to take hold of this problem and solve it satisfactorily for the farmers and the ranchers."

"There is no getting away from the fact," Mr. Lane says, "that the farmers have been hard hit during the past few years. If Montreal is going to keep the trade it really must have cheaper transportation."

In his letter he also remarks: "I have always looked upon the grand old city of Montreal as being the head of our financial institutions and of our railroads and navigation."

Mr. Emil Gaetz and Mr. Arthur Atkinson will fight for the honors of this Division at the poll on Saturday next. Mr. Fred Adams was returned by acclamation for Division No. 1, and Mr. J. O. Shaw, whose return was greeted by much applause from all Divisions, was returned for Division No. 5. Mr. Shaw has given eleven years of good service to this District, hence his popularity.

Boston to the Pacific Coast by motor is getting to be as casual as train travel. With a camp outfit tied to the running boards and a few additional auto parts, the motorists are able to dress in their sports clothes, throw care to the wind and search out Nature with the help of a little gasoline.

Hotels are only used on bath nights, as the chief fun is to pitch the tent in the open and cook over a camp fire, or, as is the case throughout the West, over specially built camp stoves established in the open places. Rustic camps are also placed in most of the national parks where motorists may rest for a few days or weeks, in cabins rented at a moderate price and within a short walk of a community house and dining hall.

The Canadian Pacific Rockies are this year to be opened to all such motor tourists, for the Canadian Government in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific Railway, has completed the Banff-Windermere automobile road which throws open Banff, Lake Louise and Windermere Valley to motorists.

Bungalow camps are being planned at convenient and beautiful points to accommodate just such travel in addition to the regular travel which comes by rail.

The new road will be formally opened on June 30th and will permit the whole tide of motor traffic up and down the Pacific Coast to travel from San Diego to Portland, thence up the Columbia Highway to Spokane and so on, through the Canadian border, up the Windermere Valley, through the Canadian Pacific Rockies to the famous resorts of Banff and Lake Louise. From Lake Louise the motorist may go to the Valley of Ten Peaks and Moraine Lake. This is entirely new country for the autoist approaching from the West, although the road from the East, Calgary to Lake Louise, through Banff, has been in operation two years.

The connecting of this link makes it possible for motorists from the East to tour all the National Parks of the United States and visit those in the Canadian Pacific Rockies as well. The roads from one end of the country to the other are generally excellent. The cost of such motor trips is cheaper than staying at home, say the motor tourists.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Edmonton Bulletin.

The government is to be commended on the stand taken by the premier, referred to in yesterday's Journal, that the present is not time for further increase in workmen's accident insurance benefits.

Meritorious in principle, the Workman's Compensation Act has already suffered in public esteem by the ease with which it has been made a political football, to be kicked annually by labor leaders in the uniform direction of their goal of higher payments and increased expense. It has been "open season" for this Act at practically every session since it came into effect in 1918, and demands still continue and will continue just so long as the public complacently foots the bill. And it does foot it, whether it realizes it or not. But that is a matter of small concern to those who foster and encourage the demands, although the annual cost has already reached a staggering total, imposed directly on certain specific industries, and indirectly but inevitably on all consumers.

Apart from the knowledge that the benefits already paid under the Act as it now exists are heavy, the present financial situation has undoubtedly influenced the government in putting a brake on this and similar demands. The ear marking of every dollar available for the first necessities of the province makes it a poor time to complicate a difficult situation by further special levies on the general sources of taxation.

MAHARG CRITICISES CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

Regina, Feb. 23.—While not arguing for a permanent wheat board, Hon. J. A. Maharg, opposition leader, said yesterday in the Saskatchewan assembly, the duration of compulsory wheat marketing should depend on the economic condition of agriculture. "It might be one, three, or five years," he said.

Mr. Maharg spoke for over two hours on the wheat marketing resolution, introduced by Premier Dunning, involving a wheat board for 1923, and co-operation involving a voluntary scheme for subsequent years.

The opposition leader criticized Premier Dunning's co-operative plan enunciated in Saskatoon some time ago, involving the amalgamation of the subsidiary export concerns of the two big farmers' marketing organizations. He declared that since the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Co. had no grain of its own to tara over to the export companies, they would have to gamble with all the grain they bought. If they were not going to buy, as well as accept, consigned grain, competition would be removed so far as export grain was concerned.

DELBURNE

February 17, 1923

Robt. Farries, Wm. Gehrke and A. L. Kirkeberg were in Edmonton for some days this week on business connected with the Crawford-Hays municipality law suit. Crawford sued the Municipality for placing a cemetery on the property formerly owned by the late Judge Biggs, and in which Crawford now has an interest.

Fred Kuffler has been working on the Wm. Gehrke farm.

Owing to the bad condition of the roads, the school van, which travels from town to the Kneeshaw farm, has not been driven part of this week.

Owing to the severe weather, Gaetz Valley school was not open this week until Thursday.

Guy Smith, of Leamington, Ont., and formerly of this community, has been visiting relatives here.

On Tuesday evening a dance was held in the Theodore Kurp home. Among those present were Frank Lefneski, Carl Kurp, Charles Millen, James Millen and members of the Thos. Lassitter, Wm. Blair and Adolph Kuffler households.

Lorne Maynard, delegate to the G.W.V.A. convention, has returned from Edmonton.

On St. Valentines' night Mrs. Albert Rowland gave a birthday party in honor of her husband. The rooms were prettily decorated with hearts and red cupid darts. Several lively games were played after which the party enjoyed Progressive Five Hundred, Whist and dancing. About midnight a bountiful supper consisting of sandwiches, cream puffs, heart-shaped, as well as other cakes, fruit, ice cream, tea, coffee, cocoa and a birthday cake was served. From the last Miss Edith Millen drew the ring and Miss Jean Farries the five-cent piece. The Five Hundred prize, consisting of a deck of cards, was won by F. Hall, and booby prize by Miss Jean Farries. Prizes for the games were won by L. Maynard, and Misses Jean Farries and F. Millen. Though the severe weather prevented quite a number from attending, the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, Mrs. Clifford Maynard (of Sedella, Alta.), James Foulds, Melville Smith, Mrs. Millen, Lorne Maynard, C. Kurp, Frank Lefneski, A. Blair, Gavin Clutton and Misses Edith Millen, Nora Foulds, Florence Millen and Jean Farries.

Miss F. M. Millen has been accepted as intermediate teacher in Great Bend Consolidated School. The position was vacant owing to the resignation of Miss Owen.

There was no C.G.I.T. meeting on Friday evening owing to the fact that Miss Storey, worker in the Girls' movement, would address the girls on Saturday afternoon.

RedDeerMunicipalHospital 1923

In accordance with the terms of the Municipal Hospitals Act, a petition was received by the Minister of Health at Edmonton, asking for the creation of a Municipal Hospital District comprising the area of the City of Red Deer.

Complying with this petition, the Minister of Health established the Red Deer Municipal Hospital District on February 13th, 1923, the members of the Board being appointed by the Council of the City of Red Deer to prepare a scheme for acquiring and operating a hospital in the said district.

The Hospital Board met and prepared the scheme outlined below. This scheme is now under the direction of the Minister of Health, to be advertised throughout the district for a period of fourteen days, following which, providing all other conditions have been complied with, the scheme will be finally approved and a date fixed, not exceeding thirty days from the date of such approval, upon which the ratepayers of the said district will be called upon to vote for the adoption or rejection of the said scheme.

The territory included in the Hospital District is the City of Red Deer.

THE CLEVERNESS OF ISABEL

(By Agnes Miller)

"Isabel Stewart, did you really design this costume for the waitress committee? You certainly are the cleverest girl!" exclaimed Emily Waling, taking a gay apron from Isabel's workbable and holding it up for inspection.

"Yes, isn't she clever?" chorused an admiring circle of prospective volunteer waitresses for the supper booth at the street fair that was to open that afternoon for the benefit of the new children's hospital. "What should we ever have done without Isabel's brains?"

"The town of Ruxton would just have had to go hungry," declared Emily. "With the Ladies' Auxiliary suddenly limiting our whole committee to ten dollars for costumes, and the committee one and all insisting on looking perfectly stunning at forty cents apiece, we'd have had no supper booth at all if Isabel hadn't remembered at the last minute that it can be the very latest style to be old-fashioned."

"Emily never stops talking nonsense!" protested Isabel, laughing. I'm ever so glad you girls like my humble efforts to be artistic and thrifty simultaneously, but I can't take credit for inventing either red-and-white-checked gingham or Mother Goose."

Isabel's polite depreciation of her own achievements did not, however, check the affectionate and indeed deserved praise of her companions. The bright aprons, amply cut and with wide strings, had quaint borders of black paper silhouettes of Mother Hubbard and her dog, of Jack Horner, Miss Muffet and other nursery-rhyme heroes and heroines of classic fame, and, though the garments were smart and original, they had cost only a trifle. Worn over a plain white dress, with a red-and-white paper mobcap like the sample lying on the table, the apron would make a most attractive and suitable uniform for supper-booth attendants. In many ways Isabel was indeed clever.

"Well, girls," she resumed in the lively, slightly ruthless manner that had won for her such a reputation for enterprise and judgment, "you've all approved the cap pattern, and I've given you all the instructions sent by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Now you absolutely must all go home and rest for this afternoon. Emily and I will attend to finishing the caps, and we'll bring them down to the booth later."

"They'll be there on time, you may depend on it too, even if Isabel has to carry them all down in her arms," declared Emily, as the girls began to take their leave.

"O dear! Well, I would for the fair! But think how dreadful to be mistaken for a milliner's errand girl!" Isabel laughed and tossed her pretty, curly head. "Now, Emily," she continued briskly, turning to the hall closet for her hat as the door shut after her callers, "if we go right down to Horton's and order those wire frames for the caps, they'll come up on the noon delivery truck, and that will allow us plenty of time to make the caps up, as they're so simple. Shall we start, then? Do I look all right without a coat?"

"Yes, indeed, it's too warm for one."

"It's really too warm to have to go downtown into these stuffy shops," said Isabel, as the two friends walked along the street in the bright sunshine of a late spring day, "but it's just the right sort of weather for an outdoor fair. I don't mind making an extra effort in a good cause, do you?"

"Some people have to stay in the shops all day—any kind of weather," remarked Emily with a saplent air. She made no other reply to Isabel's question, but Isabel, who was ready to be amused by one with a reputation for wit, did not notice any omission and laughed merrily.

"How bright you are today, Emily! So they do. But I don't believe they mind the way we would, you know. Salespeople couldn't possibly be sensitive."

"Isabel, you have a vast fund of useful, accurate information," said Emily, gazing at her friend a little more fixedly than was altogether complimentary as the girls crossed the threshold of Horton's department store. "I believe you even know where in this seething mass you can find hat frames!"

Of course Isabel knew; in two minutes the girls were at the right counter. The salesgirl, an attractive, dark-eyed young woman with a quiet, pleasant manner, was very helpful and collected all the frames that she had of the desired size. "You wish sixteen in all? There are only fifteen here, I'm afraid," she announced, "for the sizes are broken because it's late in the season."

"I tell you what I'll do then," said the ingenious Isabel. "I'll buy one more of the shape nearest to this and bend the wire so it will be uniform with the others." She glanced swiftly over the assortment. "Here's one that I think will do. I'll just slip it on and see the effect." She snatched off her hat and, laying it to one side, placed the frame on her head. "Oh, yes, this will be all right with a little bending, won't it, Emily? I'd like these all sent up on the noon delivery."

She removed the frame from her head and placed it with the fifteen others. The salesgirl turned for her order pad.

"Where are ladies' blouses?" demanded a vigorous voice full in Isabel's face. She started and opened her eyes wide in surprise. The voice, which was that of a stout and hurried lady, repeated imperiously: "Blouses, I said! Blouses, please! Where are they?"

Before the astonished and affronted Isabel could do more than gasp, the young saleswoman was in command of the situation. She stepped quickly toward the impatient customer and replied in a somewhat nervous but courteous tone: "Blouses, madam? On the third floor. Take the elevator to your right."

The lady turned toward the elevator without other acknowledgment than a glancing rebuke at Isabel, who returned the glance with one of disdain and then reached for her hat with an expression of disgust.

A feeling of uneasiness came over Emily, and she hastened to try to pass off the episode as a joke. "Why, Isabel, you must look as if you could sell something; how encouraging for this afternoon! That customer took you for a professional, my dear! Because her hat was off, I guess?" she hazarded pleasantly to the salesgirl.

"That mistake often happens when customers are trying on hats," replied the girl politely, but she glanced apprehensively at the still ruffled Isabel.

"How ridiculous!" snapped Isabel, distinctly and haughtily. "Send the frames to Miss Isabel Stewart, 9, Winton Avenue, at once, will you?"

"Certainly," the salesgirl replied, with her eyes fixed on the pad across which her pencil was travelling. Though she looked rather white, she showed no other sign of emotion. "Thank you, Miss Stewart."

"Well, that's done," announced Isabel in her ordinary tone of satisfaction as the two shoppers left Horton's. "I hope that girl really has sense enough to see that those frames do catch the noon delivery. You never can tell about these untrained-girl salespeople. And how impossible some people are! What are you staring at, Emily? Have you forgotten that rude woman who took me for a store employee? Just fancy!"

"I was indeed astonished," admitted Emily, in a tone that might have warned Isabel; "your hair was so mussed, and you know 'store employees,' as you call them, have to be perfectly neat. What on earth did you insult that nice salesgirl for?"

Isabel blinked at Emily in amazement; she seemed so manifestly innocent that Emily almost groaned. It was plain that Isabel hadn't an idea of what a cruel, snobbish blunder she had been guilty of—Isabel the clever, who loved to give herself and her time and her brains to a community cause!

"I don't understand you, Emily," said Isabel at last.

"When you said 'How ridiculous!'—and you were pretty sharp, my dear,—I suppose you meant the 'ridiculous' for that unfortunate lady who took you for a shopgirl," explained Emily with patience; "but afraid, Isabel, that girl thought you meant it would be ridiculous for anyone to take you for—for such a person as herself."

"Why, that's exactly what I think," cried Isabel with decision, "though you know me too well, Emily, to suggest that I would be guilty of a personality. If people want to take general remarks personally, let them! It's embarrassing for me to be mistaken for some one who works in a store, and that's all there is to that."

"Would it embarrass you to be taken for some one who worked in an office or a school or a hospital? Work's work, isn't it?"

"Certainly, and perfectly respectable," said Isabel approvingly, 'but you know that working in a store is quite different."

"Why?"

"Really I don't know." Isabel at least was honest. "But everybody seems to think so."

"Now that you've finally said something that is partly rational," remarked the frank Emily. "A great many people undoubtedly do regard salespeople differently from other workers. I have devoted much thought to the reason, and, though I'm not considered below normal mentally, so far I haven't guessed it."

"I tell you," suggested Isabel, leaping readily to a convenient conclusion, "talking isn't an intellectual occupation, you see. It doesn't attract the best types of mind. You have to have brains to be a good teacher or a trained nurse. Anybody can sell goods."

Emily knew better than to argue when Isabel had her blind spot turned on a topic. She wisely devoted all her energies to helping settle the last details for the supper booth, and as a result of her efforts and Isabel's all the waitress committee were ready in ample time to serve the appetizing meal awaiting patrons of the gay little restaurant at one end of Town Hall Square, on that day known as the "street" of street-fair fame. All round the square were the countless attractions of the community benefit—booths for selling books, candy, flowers, vegetables and garden tools, the children's playground and the band. As the long bright afternoon wore on the crowd grew so large and merry that it seemed as if every citizen of Ruxton had come out to help the children's hospital.

"Even out-of-town people are coming, too!" said the chief hostess, hurrying into the kitchen of the supper booth early in the evening. "Girls, the treasurer says that, if we take in money at this rate for two or three hours longer, the hospital's assured! Isabel, hurry, dear! I've just seated an automobile party at your last table. They are passing through Ruxton and have stopped for supper."

Isabel hastened out in her best form. Her new customers were a good-natured, agreeable group of friends who seemed much pleased with their surroundings. Two of them, girls about her own age, eyed her pretty costume appreciatively. The party gave a liberal order, which Isabel took down in her most businesslike manner, and then went out quickly to fill. She was delighted at being able to bring in so large a contribution for the hospital.

As she bore back her tray and placed it on the service table behind the two girls she could see they were still discussing their surroundings with approval. And as she set the coffee cups on their saucers she overheard a few words of the conversation:

"That's a good-looking apron the waitress has on, a real novelty."

"It would be just the thing for the maids at our club luncheon next month."

"Exactly what I was thinking. Let's ask her where she got it."

"Well, do you suppose she'd mind? Would that be too personal?"

"Dear me, no, child! People in that walk of life aren't sensitive the way you and I are. Anyway, we'll tip her well. Why should she mind?"

It is to Isabel's credit that, though she was shaking from head to foot with rage and humiliation, she proceeded to wait on the unwitting offenders and their friends to the best of her ability. Ruxton needed its hospital, and strangers must be courteously treated. If they assumed that the waitresses were hired, that must be considered merely as a harmless mistake. With a scarlet face she took her position against the wall, awaiting whatever was to come—and looked straight into the eyes of the salesgirl who had sold her the hat frames that morning! With a small party of friends she was sitting at a table directly beside that of the automobile party.

Then Isabel's blind spot shifted, and she saw in one brief instant how mistaken and stupid she had been in her attitude toward another girl and her chosen work. Her own case and the salesgirl's ran parallel. Their two personalities had been ignored and affronted, because thoughtless people had looked down on the valuable work they did; their feelings had been held of no account. Yet for the sake of business those feelings had had to be sacrificed, and discourtesy had had to be courteously received. Isabel swallowed hard. The next moment she heard the salesgirl's pleasant low voice carrying across the table:

"Miss Stewart! Do you mind if I say what a wonderful supper booth you have? And they tell me you designed all the volunteer waitresses' costumes; is that so? They are charming!"

Then the girl too had heard. Here indeed was magnanimity! Here too were tact, good sense and appreciation; could those high mental qualities be wasted in salesmanship? Isabel did not try to settle the point immediately, but she managed to stammer gratefully a fitting answer to the girl. She was not astonished when her customers departed with most cordial comments on the splendid time they had had, but without asking questions or leaving tips.

Soon Isabel's rescuer too rose to go. Isabel hurried toward her. "Excuse me," she said haltingly, "mayn't I—I'd like to—" All smooth phrases forsook her. "I think," she said at last, looking straight at the other girl, "that I owe you an apology for this morning as well as thanks for this evening. I made a bad mistake. Will you forgive me?"

"I understand perfectly. Please say nothing more."

"I must say one thing more, and that is that I'll never make such a mistake again."

"You wouldn't! Anyone can make a mistake; clever people don't repeat them."

The girl spoke with such friendliness that Isabel felt quite drawn to her. "Listen, please! I'm often down in Horton's. Won't you tell me your name?"

Just for a moment the girl hesitated. Then she smiled very sweetly at her younger companion and said gently, "My name is Alice Rhodes."

"Alice Rhodes!"

Isabel's face turned crimson. Alice Rhodes! That was the name of the girl whom she had been hearing about for four whole years, thee most admired girl in the college class to whom her own cousin, Isabel May Stewart, belonged. Alice Rhodes had been a leader, had graduated number one the year before and had been planning to enter busines. And this was she! Isabel's one cause for relief in all her sufferings was that she had apologized for a fault because it was a fault and not in deference to a reputation. That act made her able to listen with outward calm at least to the girl's leave-taking.

"Perhaps," Alice was saying, "I'll see you again before long then. Horton's is full of tempting things, isn't it? Especially for me and for two of my classmates; we're all there, learning how to sell things. It certainly takes every bit of wit one has!" Then she was gone.

Isabel remained plunged in profound thought in the now nearly empty supper booth.

"Come on, Isabel, hurry and help clear up the tables, and then let's go out with the others and listen to the music," cried Emily, rushing past with a trayful of dishes. "What's the matter? You're thinking!"

"Yes, Emily," replied Isabel, "I'm wondering if I could ever in the wide world be clever enough to learn how to sell things."

"Pa, what do they mean by going from the sublime to the ridiculous?" asked Clarence.

"It means a girl dreams of marrying some wonderful prince and then goes and ties herself up to a boob like your father," snapped ma.

LEG WEAKNESS DUE TO FAULTY RATIONS

Faulty rations and not disease cause hogs to "go down behind," according to the Iowa State College, which reports many cases of this trouble in that State this year. It is probable that the lack of mineral matter in the ration is the cause of leg weakness, although poor breeding also may have something to do with it. Prof. John M. Evvard of the Iowa station found a mineral mixture containing calcium phosphate or equal parts of air-slaked lime, salt and bonemeal beneficial. The college says:

"Young pigs that show signs of weak legs should be fed a well-balanced ration containing plenty of calcium or lime. Often sows that have cared for heavy litters go down, supposedly as the result of the reduction of calcium through milk taken by the pigs. Placing pigs or sows on a milk ration often relieves the weakness, since the cow's milk has a high-lime or calcium content. Where weakness appears in a herd it is a good plan to try to eliminate as soon as possible this line of breeding, and get animals with strong legs."

PLAN RECLAMATION OF VALUABLE LAND

Three survey parties connected with the Canadian Branch of Interior have just returned from the Carrot River valley triangle, adjacent to The Pas. Three years have now been spent obtaining information on the reclamation of some eight hundred thousand acres of land in the Carrot River valley, which is reported by these engineers to be the richest and most fertile soil known in Western Canada. It is understood that further reconnaissance survey work will be proceeded with this summer in the vicinity of the Demashire rapids on the Saskatchewan river, at the head of Lake Winnipeg. Here, it is claimed by experts, locks will be so constructed as to regulate the entire flooded area tributary to the Saskatchewan river as far west as Prince Albert. The drop the water would have at these rapids is about 25 feet, which is said to be ample for the successful drainage of the whole Carrot River valley triangle.

MRS. JAS. GUMMOW DEAD

Mrs. James Gummow, an old and esteemed resident of the Springvale district, entered into her rest on Wednesday in her 73rd year. For the past ten years Mrs. Gummow has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, and the last two years she has been bedfast. Mrs. Gummow was born east of Cobourg, Ont., and was married in the same district to Mr. Gummow about fifty years ago. They came out to Red Deer nearly 33 years ago, and homesteaded and pre-empted on the farm—the east half of 36-37-27, W. 4th—which has been their home ever since. Mrs. Gummow was a kindly hospitable, generous woman, and an attached member of the Methodist church. She has two sisters living in Eastern Ontario. Mr. Gummow will have much sympathy in his loneliness.

SUDDEN DEATH OF FRANK SPEIGHT

Mr. Frank Speight, aged 29, living with his parents on the farm three miles north of Red Deer, was found dead in bed on Wednesday morning. He had been in the habit of taking veronal to induce sleep for the past two months, and last week slept for two days at a stretch. It is believed that death was due to an overdose of the drug. He was well known round town, having driven for the steam laundry for some years. Besides his parents, two sisters are living at home, and Mr. Arthur Speight and Mrs. James at Drumheller, to all of whom much sympathy will be extended.
